ABSTRACT

A number of publications, articles, and data bases that contain data related to the National Center for Higher Education Management Systems' (NCHEMS) Statewide Measures Inventory are identified and described. This document does not contain the actual data, but it does describe and reference various sources where the data can be found. In addition, it provides information about: (1) how the data are organized, (2) the kinds of information given (for example, data on personal income, number of high school graduates, enrollments in postsecondary education institutions), (3) the level of aggregation (for example, by region, state, postsecondary education institution), (4) the years for which the data are available, and (5) those measures in the Statewide Measures Inventory which correspond to the data referenced. (Author/DGC)

Documents acquired by ERIC include many informal unpublished materials not available from other sources. ERIC makes every effort to obtain the best copy available. nevertheless, items of marginal reproducibility are often encountered and this affects the quality of the microfiche and hardcopy reproductions ERIC makes available via the ERIC Document Reproduction Service (EDRS). EDRS is not responsible for the quality of the original document. Reproductions supplied by EDRS are the best that can be made from the original.

The Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education (WICHE) is a public agency through which the 13 western states work together

- to increase educational opportunities for westerners.
- to expand the supply of specialized manpower in the West.
- to help universities and colleges improve both their programs and their management.
- to inform the public about the needs of higher education.

The Program of the National Center for Higher Education Management Systems at WICHE was proposed by state coordinating agencies and colleges and universities in the West to be under the aegis of the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education. The National Center for Higher Education Management Systems at WICHE proposes in summary:

To design, develop, and encourage the implementation of management information systems and data bases including common data elements in institutions and agencies of higher education that will:

- provide improved information to higher education administration at all levels.
- facilitate exchange of comparable data among institutions.
- facilitate reporting of comparable information at the state and national levels.

ABSTRACT

A Reference Guide to Postsecondary Education Data Sources identifies and describes a number of publications, articles, and data bases that contain data related to most of the items of information identified in the NCHEMS Statewide Measures Inventory (Allman, Wing, and McLaughlin, 1975). This document does not contain the actual data, but it does describe and reference various sources where the data can be found. In addition, it provides information about: (1) how the data are organized (for example, item-by-item, in tables, by chapters), (2) the kinds of information given (for example, data on personal income, number of high school graduates, enrollments in postsecondary education institutions), (3) the level of aggregation (for example, by region, state, postsecondary education institution), (4) the years for which data are available, and (5) those measures in the Statewide Measures Inventory which correspond to the data referenced.

PREFACE

The primary mission of the National Center for Higher Education Management Systems (NCHEMS) at WICHE is to assist organizations and agencies concerned with postsecondary education with the development of improved procedures and tools for resource allocation and management. A related objective is the development of procedures that facilitate the exchange of comparable data among these institutions and agencies. This document, which has been developed by the NCHEMS staff, reviewed by the staff and the Statewide Measures Task Force, and approved for limited distribution by the Current Projects Committee of the NCHEMS Board of Directors, is intended to further these general objectives.

A Reference Guide to Postsecondary Education Data Sources has been developed as a companion to the NCHEMS Statewide Measures Inventory with the objective of assisting individuals in the identification of available sources of data that can be related to postsecondary education planning and decision making in the United States. Although its primary target audience is state-level postsecondary education planners and decision makers, the data corresponding to the items of information in the Statewide Measures Inventory are of sufficiently general interest that the Reference Guide should also be useful to researchers and planners and decision makers at the institutional, local, and national levels as well.

Since additional documents related to identifying and describing data sources may be developed at NCHEMS in the future, readers are urged to review this Reference Guide and submit their comments, criticisms, suggestions, and references to additional sources of data related to postsecondary education directly to the author (Kathy Allman, NCHEMS at WICHE, P.O. Drawer P, Boulder, Colorado 80302). This input will aid in the future development of NCHEMS work in the data sources area.

INTRODUCTORY REMARKS

INTRODUCTION

Postsecondary education planners and policy makers require many kinds of information on which to base their decisions. At the state level in particular this poses problems because state postsecondary education agencies must rely on institutions and other agencies for most of their information needs. Because the data needed are diverse, sources for these data are equally diverse and scattered. This Reference Guide to Postsecondary Education Data Sources (referred to as the Reference Guide) addresses these needs by describing in detail a number of sources of data related to postsecondary education that are currently available in published reports and data files in the United States.

This document was conceived as a companion to the NCHEMS Statewide Measures Inventory (Allman, Wing, and McLaughlin [1975], referred to as the Inventory), and was funded as part of the Statewide Measures Project at NCHEMS. It was viewed as a way to make the Inventory more useful by identifying sources of data that would correspond to items in the Inventory. Although this linkage to the Inventory still exists by virtue of the criteria used in determining which data sources would be included in the document, the variety of sources included in the Reference Guide should make it useful for institutional, local, and national planners, decision makers, and researchers, as well as those at the state level.

A DESCRIPTION OF THE REFERENCE GUIDE

The Reference Guide is essentially an annotated bibliography of sources of data corresponding to items of information in the Inventory. It does not contain actual data, but rather refers to data sources, describing for each source: the types of information given (for example, data on personal income, number of high school graduates, enrollments in postsecondary education institutions); how the data are organized (for example, item-by-item, in tables, by chapters); the level of aggregation (for example, by state, region, postsecondary education institution); and the years for which data are available. The criteria used for inclusion of data sources, the limitations, and the organization and format of the Reference Guide are described below.

CRITERIA FOR INCLUSION OF DATA SOURCES

Two criteria have been applied to determine whether a data source should be included in this document:

- the information in the data source must be national in scope, that is it must cover a majority of the fifty states, with state-by-state aggregations of data and
- the data must be applicable to at least one measure in the Statewide Measures Inventory.

These criteria were chosen because a document many times the size of the present effort would be generated if all data related to postsecondary education that are available in published or computerized form were identified.

LIMITATIONS

Limitations related to the Reference Guide can be grouped into three major categories: the literature search, the level of detail used for the data source descriptions, and the criteria used for inclusion in the document.

Literature Search Limitations

Data sources described in the Reference Guide may not reflect the most recent publications in a series. For example, some of the U.S. National Center for Education Statistics (USNCES) documents described in the Reference Guide are not the latest ones published. In these cases, the referenced documents should be considered as examples of the kinds of data published in the series. In addition, data sources that meet the criteria may not be included in the Reference Guide because of oversights in the literature search.

Level of Detail Limitations

No attempts have been made to determine the methodologies used by the data collectors for the different sources. Therefore, modes of inquiry (for example, surveys), the sizes and types of universes and samples under consideration (for example, all higher education institutions as the universe and selected higher education institutions as the sample), and the units of inquiry (for example, individuals, institutions) have not been specified in the Reference Guide. Also, it is incumbent on users of the Reference Guide to make their own quality checks on the data if they are concerned about such things as accuracy and definitions.

Criteria Limitations

Although the sources included in the Reference Guide cover a wide range of categories and types of information, they do not exhaust the possibilities. The Reference Guide does not include data collected by individual states and small groups of states that were not collected in a comparable fashion for the majority of other states, data collected by individual postsecondary education institutions that are not collected by all institutions in the majority of states, and data that are not reported on a state-by-state basis. These sources were not referenced because of the problems of designing cataloging schemes, the probable size of the document, and the fact that many documents for individual states are not published and distributed widely.

RELATION TO STATEWIDE MEASURES INVENTORY

The Statewide Measures Inventory has been used as the basic subject classification scheme for the data sources identified in the Reference Guide (see Section I--Measures and Corresponding Data Sources). One limitation of this classification scheme is that the measure names may not imply the full range of data that might be related to them. Therefore, familiarity with the Inventory will facilitate the use of the Reference Guide and aid in determining where specific types of data may be found (for example, data about postsecondary education graduates may be found in measures "2180--Discontinuing Students" and "4030--Instruction Programs, Courses of Study, and Activities - Completions"). The Numeric List of Measures in the Statewide Measures Inventory (p. 2.1.1) and the Alphabetical Index to the Statewide Measures

Inventory (p. 3.1.1) will be of assistance in a particular subject search. Also, some of the relationships between the data and the measures were not as clear-cut as could be desired, and subjective decisions about where the data should be referenced in Section I were required in some situations. An attempt was made to provide enough cross referencing of information so that sources of data of interest will not be lost or buried in the document.

When using the data identified in the Reference Guide in conjunction with the Statewide Measures Inventory, it is important to note that in many cases the definitions used in data sources and the categories used for formatting data are not the same as those described in the Inventory. The discrepancies between the myriad of existing data definitions and those specified in the Inventory were part of the reason for not incorporating the data sources directly into the Inventory under the "Source" headings in that document. It is hoped that ultimately as data are used more there will be incentives for all data collectors to move toward standard definitions of terms such as those suggested in the Inventory. The Reference Guide can be thought of as a short-run expedient to facilitate data compilation and subsequent analysis and application to policy making.

ORGANIZATION AND FORMAT

The Reference Guide is organized into seven parts. These are:

- Bibliography of Data Sources Contained in the Reference Guide,
- Numeric List of Measures Contained in the Statewide Measures Inventory,

- Alphabetical Index to the Statewide Measures Inventory,
- Section I--Measures and Corresponding Data Sources,
- Section II--Data Sources and Corresponding Measures,
- Appendix A: List of Other Guides to Data Related to Postsecondary Education, and
- Appendix B: Annotated List of Current NCHEMS Documents Related to State/National Postsecondary Education Planning and Decision Making.

Each section is described briefly below.

Bibliography of Data Sources Contained in the Reference Guide

All of the documents referenced in Sections I and II are listed in the bibliography. The entries are arranged alphabetically by author, publisher, or title, and show the frequency of publication, place of publication, publisher, date of publication (first date of publication for a document in a series, if known), library classification number (U.S. Government Superintendent of Documents call number [SD#], Educational Resources Information Center number [ERIC#], or Library of Congress catalog number used by the University of Colorado library system [LC#]) if known, and number referring to the document's location in Section II. Figure 1 shows a sample page from the Bibliography with a variety of notes to explain the items and notations.

Numeric List of Measures in the Statewide Measures Inventory

The Statewide Measures Inventory is essentially a list of items of information, along with concise definitions and other information of interest, relevant to statewide postsecondary education planning and decision making. It has been

These sections and measures are listed in numeric order in this part of the Reference Guide, and can be used as a subject index to Section I in conjunction with the Alphabetical Index to the Statewide Measures Inventory. (For information about the definitions and categories of the measures, the Inventory [Allman, Wing, and McLaughlin (1975)] should be consulted.) Those measures that are marked with an asterisk are not contained in the Reference Guide because no corresponding sources of data meeting the established criteria were identified.

Measure names and other subject headings are listed alphabetically in this part of the Reference Guide. Cross references are provided to make it easier to determine which measures may be concerned with related data (see Figure 2 for a sample page from the Index). Section I--Measures and Corresponding Data Sources

Section I specifies currently available sources of data into subject matter areas corresponding to the measures in the Inventory. Each measure for which a source of pertinent data could be identified has a separate page in the Reference Guide. On these pages (identified by the measure number and name) information is provided about corresponding data sources; the data source abbreviation; entry numbers for those tables, chapters, or pages related to the measure; years for which data are available for each entry; and the page location of the data source in Section II. See Figure 3 for a sample page from Section I.

Section II--Data Sources and Corresponding Measures

In Section II, data sources are arranged alphabetically by their identifying abbreviations and numbered sequentially with each data source starting on a new page (see Figure 4). The following kinds of information, if available or relevant, are provided for each data source:

- an abbreviated reference to the data source,
- the data source number to assist in locating the item,
- a complete bibliographic description of the data source,
- a library classification number (LC#--Library of Congress number, SD#--U.S. Government Superintendent of Documents number, or ERIC#--Educational Resources Information Center number),
- an entry number and/or name, and where the entry is located in the data source (for example, "Table 1.1-33. Residence and migration of all students: all institutions, fall 1963, pp. 78-81," and "School systems, pp. 5-526").

This set of information about each data source is provided to assist users in the determination of whether a document contains the data desired and if it is worth obtaining from a library or from the publisher.

Appendix A: List of Other Guides to Data Related to Postsecondary Education

A number of guides to statistical information were encountered in the search for currently available data related to postsecondary education. These guides have been listed in Appendix A to facilitate a search for additional information if the Reference Guide does not suffice in the identification of appropriate data sources.

Appendix B: Annotated List of Current NCHEMS Documents Related to State/National Postsecondary Education Planning and Decision Making

The State/National Products Unit at the National Center for Higher Education

Management Systems (NCHEMS) develops information systems and analytical procedures and tools that can assist those concerned with state and national postsecondary planning and policy making. Appendix B contains an annotated list of NCHEMS documents that may be of interest to state and national planners and decision makers. It is divided into four sections:

- Final State/National Reports,
- Preliminary State/National Documents or Working Papers,
- Other Final Reports Applicable to the State/National Level, and
- Other Preliminary Documents and Working Papers.

The publications listed may be obtained either from the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education (WICHE) Publications Unit or from the authors.

EXEMPLARY SEARCH FOR POSTSECONDARY-EDUCATION-RELATED DATA

To illustrate the use of the Reference Guide, a search for a specific type of information is provided on the next few pages. The information sought concerns the number of individuals who graduated from higher education institutions in each of the fifty states for the 1972-73 school year.

Step 1: Check the "Alphabetical Index to the Statewide Measures Inventory" under "Graduates (Postsecondary Education)." Measures 2180 and 4030 are referenced.

Step 2: Check the "Numeric List of Measures in the Statewide Measures Inventory" to determine the nature of measures 2180 and 4030. Measure 2180 is "Discontinuing Students" and Measure 4030 is "Instruction Programs, Courses of Study, and Activities - Completions."

Step 3: As both measures 2180 and 4030 may contain information about graduates of higher education institutions, one now goes to "Section I--Measures and Corresponding Data Sources." Under "2180 - Discontinuing Students" one discovers that there are no data sources listed with data available for the 1972-73 year. Under "4030 - Instruction Programs, Courses of Study, and Activities - Completions" one notes that there are five entries for the 1972-73 year: data sources 4, 37, 89, 90 and 272.

Step 4: Go to Section II. Check data source number 4 (ACE: Accredited Institutions), pp. 171-187. For that entry it can be seen that information about degrees is part of the information given only in that document's "Supplement to American Universities and Colleges." Since this title does not seem very promising, one checks the next data source--number 37 (EDSTAT II: ERD), C801-C1325. This data file contains information for 1970-71, 1971-72, and 1972-73 on such things as first-professional, bachelor's, master's, and doctor's degrees conferred in various discipline areas and other formal recognitions conferred. This seems to be the kind of information being sought. One can stop here or can continue looking at the other data sources mentioned in 4030. Continued checking shows that data source number 89 (NCFPE: NCFPEVT), C71-C72 contains information about the number of students completing postsecondary career schools' programs and the number of job placements in the field. Again, too narrow for the needs. The next data source, number 90 (NCFPE: TRINST71), is an example of the type of material contained in NCFPE: TRINST72 and NCFPE: TRINST73. Variables C293-C634 in these sources describe degrees conferred and other recognitions such as first-professional, bachelor's, master's, doctor's, and associate degrees, and other formal recognitions for 1970-71, 1971-72, and 1972-73. Data source number 90 also seems to be the kind of information being sought, so it merits further investigation.

One of the last paragraphs in the description of the NCFPE Data Base (page 4.1.207) states that "The National Center for Education Statistics took over management of the data base on January 10, 1974. It became EDSTAT I and has since evolved into EDSTAT II (see data sources 37-42). The NCFPE data base is not being updated but is still available on tape at System Development Corporation's corporate computer facility." As EDSTAT II is being updated and is more easily accessible, data source number 37 seems to be the preferred source for data related to degrees.

The last reference to a data source with degree information for 1972-73 is number 272, (US Rehab: State Vocational Rehabilitation), pp. 9-246. The kind of data contained in those pages is related to the total number of rehabilitations accomplished by state vocational rehabilitation agencies per 100,000 population and per counseling man-year, and does not meet the requirements specified.

Step 5: Since the EDSTAT II: ERD data file contains the desired information, the final step is to contact the National Center for Education Statistics for further information about how to obtain statistics from the EDSTAT II: ERD file on the number of individuals who graduated from higher education institutions in each of the fifty states for the 1972-73 school year.

[37-42] EDSTAT II

The National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) has recently implemented a large-scale on-line national educational statistics facility called EDSTAT II. This system, a follow-on effort to the National Commission on the Financing of Postsecondary Education's EDSTAT I (see NCFPE Data Base 84-97), provides information retrieval capabilities anywhere in the United States for a nominal computer charge. Retrieval is performed by entering English language-like commands on a teletypewriter with computer reports generated almost immediately by a computer and typed out at the user's terminal.

Currently NCES is maintaining several Higher Education General Information Survey (HEGIS) files on line. These include statistics on institutional enrollment, finance, earned degrees, employees, and physical facilities. In addition, a number of files for previous years are maintained off-line, but can be called up for use under the EDSTAT II System. NCES is planning to diversify its library on EDSTAT data bases throughout the next year to include data from other NCES and Census data bases.

The following files are either currently or potentially available under the EDSTAT II system:

State roundup, pp. 442-511. NOTE: The "state roundup of educational developments is based on information obtained from a questionnaire sent to the chief state school officers. The officers were asked to report on significant changes or innovations in education in their states for the 1971-1972 school year. Since many developments had their origin in decisions, events, and programs that came earlier, information was requested on these matters also. The major areas covered in the questionnaire were finance, curriculum, governance, legislation, personnel, and research. Most of the states were very cooperative, answering the questionnaire and sending in addition annual reports, project reports, and news releases. For those states that did not respond to the questionnaire, information was gathered from various news sources." p. 442.

[84-97] NCFPE Data Base

The Education Amendments of 1972 contained a provision establishing a National Commission on the Financing of Postsecondary Education (NCFPE). This commission was charged with developing an analytical framework to be used to service existing financing programs and to recommend new financing methods and policies that would most effectively serve the national interest. The staff of the NCFPE built a national data base on postsecondary education for use in the analysis of national policies for financing postsecondary education. The NCFPE National Postsecondary Education Data Base Directory (Washington, D.C.: Government Printing Office, 1974) provides file formats and codes for users of this data base. Explanations of the data base's availability, data management language, and data processing capabilities can be obtained from Financing Postsecondary Education in the United States (Washington, D.C.: Government Printing Office, 1973); "Towards a National Data Base for Postsecondary Education," in the Proceedings of the first Annual CAUSE Conference; and A Framework for Analyzing National Policies of Financing Postsecondary Education: A Description of a National Data Base and Planning Model (Washington, D.C.: Government Printing Office, 1974).

The commission's data base currently consists of twenty-two direct access computer files with about 110 million bytes (characters of data). The files contained in the National Commission on the Financing of Postsecondary Education Data Base (as of January 1974) are:

Eight of these files are described in the Reference Guide --those that could be aggregated by state with the majority of states represented.

The National Center for Education Statistics took over management of the data base on January 10, 1974. It became EDSTAT I and has since evolved into EDSTAT II (see data sources 37-42). The NCFPE data base itself is not being updated, but is still available on tape at System Development Corporation's corporate computer facility.
